Harambe Clinic Offers Sickle Cell Anemia Test

Sickle Cell Anemia is a serious and often deadly blood disease that is commonly found among Black people and in the majority of cases it leads to death before the age of 30.

One out of 10 Black people carries Sickle Cell Anemia in this country. This means there are almost 2 million carriers of Sickle Cell Anemia. It is a disease passed on from the mother and/or father to the child. Sickle Cell Anemia shows up as early as the first year of life. Often with swelling of the hands or feet, with pneumonia or with anemia the disease causes the red blood cells to twist and become shaped like a sickle as compared to normal red blood cells which are round and doughnut shaped.

The sickled cells stick together and form clots. When this occurs it causes severe pain usually in the arms, legs knees and stomach. This clotting of blood with pain is called SICKLE CELL CRISIS, the most severe condition.

Because of the sickled shape, the cells are weak and tired. With proper care there may be long periods of time without severe illness. However, there may be life threatening complications such as shock, stroke and damage to organs and clots in the skin tissue which leads to severe skin sores, severe infections, yellowing of the eyes and finally death. If anyone or a combination of these signs are present, please ask your doctor for a sickle cell test.

It is believed that Sickle Cell Anemia originated in Africa and carried to the rest of the world by the immigration of black people.

Every person who has Sickle Cell Anemia had it passed on to him by his mother and father. When a man and a woman who both have Sickle Cell trait have a child, it is a great likelihood that child will have Sickle Cell Anemia carriers. Those having Sickle trait usually do not suffer as much as those with Sickle Cell Anemia except under certain extreme conditions.

At the present time there are many forms of treatment for Sickle Cell Anemia that relieve discomfort and prolong life; but there is no known cure.

Find out from your doctor what you can do to protect yourself and your unborn children from Sickle Cell Anemia. Every Black person should see a doctor to find out if he has Sickle Cell Trait.

DON,T BE A LOSER, FIND OUT IF YOUARE AFFECTED BY THIS DISEASE, CHECK OUT YOUR BLOOD!

On July 22, Harambe Medical Clinic, 1186 Broadway in Seaside, will be conducting Sickle Cell Anemia tests. They will be held from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. For more information call 394-7786.

Charge Police Harassment

The Seaside City Council, at its recent meeting, ordered an investigation into charges of police harassment of Blacks.

The council took the action after listening for more than two hours of complaints from a delegation of placard-carrying Blacks.

Among the speakers complaining were Mrs. Jane Van Hook, Brady Avery and Ed Battle.

The council, by unanimous vote, directed city manager Dudley Lapham and city attorney Cary Royster to investigate the charges.

Mrs. Van Hook, director of the Legal Aid Society's Seaside office and Seaside citizen Don Likas were also designated to sit in on the investigation.

Most of the complaints covered a period of the last six months and many were directed against Sgt. Ralph Burdett. However, other officers were also named in the complaints.

Part of the complaints were in connection with the Elk's Rest Citadel Lodge No. 1320 at 1569 Del Monte Boulevard, a private club with no connection to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The complaints were that police insisted on making bar checks despite the club's private status. When they were refused admittance, police have forced their way in, according to the complaintants.

Seaside Ripples

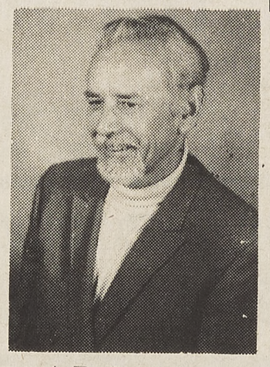
By Clint Porter
(In the absence of Andy Barragan)



A.E. Barragan

In the last session of the City Council Meeting there appeared a group of people who felt they were formally lodging a complaint to the Mayor and the members of the council on the actions of of three Seaside Police Officers and one in particular. This Police Officer, if his background is researched, may be suffering from a deep hurt in his past, or perhaps in his youth he developed a sort of complex making him think he had to "bully" his way through life to hide something deeper in his personality. These traumas should not directly be held against this man. Of course his position in law and order would never help him make a better person of himself, because it is too easy for him to use this position to further his youth-hood psychosis.

In these times, it is impossible to "keep people in line" by fear. When a person faces fear, whether it is genuine or perpetrated, the additonal energy generated to combat that fear is now being released (one way or another).

Our early economic system employed fear as a weapon and the breeding of fear as a by-product. In the pre-psychological ages there may have been good reason for men to believe that fear was the "natural" stimulus to action, for it is biologically true that immediate danger means an increase in physical energy with which to meet the danger, or flee from it. Fear was the one chief tool for maintaining order throughout the entire society.

European Opera Star Visits Seaside

VISITOR ON STAGE - Hope Foye is shown with German cast in "Porgy and Bess." Miss Foye was guest performer throughout entire tour of production. Porgy was played by Cullen Maiden and Crown by Joel Thomas. All other performers are black-faced Germans.

Seaside has been honored by the arrival of Miss Hope Foye, a prominent opera and concert singer from Europe. Miss Foye is here visiting her dear friend, Mrs. June Eisgrou, an occupational therapist at the Community Hospital.

Miss Foye flew into town a few days ago after spending some time in Hartford, Connecticut, with her parents. She is expected to remain in Seaside for only a few more days before returning to work in Berlin.

The famous singer began her career with a $100 scholarship to the Julius Hartt Music College in Connecticut. After her promise was discovered, the scholarship was extended to cover four years of training.

Following that, the Director of the National Conservatory of Music in Mexico City offered her another scholarship, which she accepted. With the guidance of a private teacher in Mexico City, she obtained still another scholarship. This one took her to the Ordonez Academy there.

During her nine years in Mexico, Miss Foye devoted her time to singing and acting. Under the direction of the master and father of the great cellist Pablo Casals, she performed in Pablo Casals' Music Festival in Acapulco with eight of the world's greatest cellists.

Following this she was encouraged to go to Europe to further her study and training. She arrived in Switzerland where the American Women's Club arranged for her to study at the opera house in Zurich. There she received a Rockfeller Grant. She sang for two years at the International in Zurich. She then received a contract to perform in Israel at the National Opera House in Tel Aviv.

Following her stint in Israel, Miss Foy joined the American Porgy and Bess Touring Company, which performed at the Habima Theater and many Kibutzim Theaters in and around Tel Aviv.

Later, Miss Foye returned to Europe where she continued studying privately in Berlin. She studied opera technique and phsyical therapy, while performing on television and radio, in concerts at the Philharmonic, as well as some dramatic acting.

This past season she was guest performer as Bess in Porgy and Bess in Bremerhaven and Mainz, Germany.

Miss Foye is presently under intensive study of a new technique of opera speech, breathing and physical therapy. She is studying under the expert guidance of one of Europe's well-known tutors, Anna Langenbeck. She has been studying under Frau Langenbeck for the past four and a half years.

While in Seaside, Miss Foye has been showered with invitations. She has been introduced to many people through the efforts of Dr. and Mrs. Norton J. Goldman of Seaside.

Her most enlightened observance was when she attended the last meeting of the Seaside City Council. She observed all the arguments pertaining to plans to develop a multimillion dollar shopping center near Roberts Lake. She was both surprised and impressed with the orderly handling of the matter.

Her years of living in Mexico and Europe have greatly diffused her conception of "fair play" for the Blacks in America. But after watching the entire proceedings of the city council meeting, she is confident that there is but one law for all in these United States, especially in Seaside. She is slightly amazed, but deeply thrilled, that the Blacks would stand up and "tell it like it is" to their peers.

Miss Foye has motored down the Peninsula shoreline, watched the sunset, the fog, felt the heatwave and the coolness of our nights. To say the least, she is impressed by it all.

This Thursday evening, Miss Foye will be the guest on The Dick Bragg Show at 7:15.

Soroptomists Make Donation

The Soroptomist Club of the Monterey Peninsula has presented Community Hospital with a $1,500 check for surgical equipment.

The gift has been used to help purchase a laparscope which permits the surgeon to view and photograph the interior of the abdomen without the necessity of major surgery.

In acknowledging the gift, Dr. A. Carol McKenney, president of the Board of Trustees, noted that the Soroptomists are celebrating their 50th anniversary as the oldest and largest women's service club in the world.

"The Soroptomist Club of the Monterey Peninsula has in the past been generous to the hospital be helping us purchase needed equipment. This new gift, therefore, is doubly appreciated and is for a much-needed piece of surgical equipment which was high on the hospital's priority list," Dr. McKenney said.

Soldiers Help Flood Victims

1st Brigade, one of Ft. Ord's most active community supporters, was the first unit to answer a "cry for help" sent out by the American Red Cross.

The brigade collected $1588.50 in donations from its 23 companies and presented it to the Red Cross for its natural disaster fund July 12.

The check was presented to Andrew McConnell, finance chairman of the Monterey County Chapter of the Red Cross, by Captain James R. Porter, assistant adjutant of 1st Brigade.

Red Cross' Western Area Office said that the organization's total resources of manpower and funds are being concentrated on the mammoth relief operation in South Dakota and along the East Coast, which is expected to cost more than $10 million.

Benefit Performances Will Aid in Revival of Theatre

A new orginization is currently reviving the Circle Theatre, Carmel, and will retain it as a center for progressive theatre and other cultural activities on the Monterey Peninsula.

The Circle Players have been granted two benefit performances by the California Industrial Safety Board, which previously condemned the building. The benefit performances will raise the money needed to repair the theatre's electrical system. The Circle Players is calling upon the public for further support by selling memberships and soliciting contributions.

The Circle Players is composed of theatre artists and craftsmen who have provided much of the energy in past productions of Monterey Peninsula College, Hidden Valley Theatre Division, Studio First and Circle Theatre, and who have commited themselves to producing original and relevant theatre pieces for the Peninsula's theatre-goers. Much of the Circle Player's work is developed during creative improvisational sessions. Dances and blackout sketches thus round out each production of current plays, most of which retain an experimental flavor and emphasize topical concerns. This should make for one of the most original and exciting creative groups working on the Peninsula.

The benefits will be performed on Saturday, July 22, and Saturday, July 29 at 8:30 p.m. for a $2 donation. The Circle Players will present a program of dance, improvisation, and two plays, Elaine May's ADAPTATION and Terrence McNally's NEXT. ADAPTATION/NEXT were critical and popular successes both in New York and San Francisco.

Elaine May, who was active in improvisational theatre years ago with Mike Nichols, sets her comedy in a television game show environment that effectively highlights its satiric points: "Ms. May,s picture of man from birth until death, with all its madness, is still familiar and with all its nonsense infinitely wise....Incident after incident makes you laugh and suddenly makes you stop and think that maybe you,re laughing at yourself. This is not entertainment, this is art," (George Oppenheimer)

NEXT takes place in an Army induction center, where an over-weight and over-age "draftee" has been mistakenly called in for a physical, and although he attempts to evade the inevitable, is in the end confused and humiliated by the system. Clive Barnes: "funny, provocative, touching."

Peninsual Theatre-goers will see much of David McCharren, who played Sade in the MPC production of Marat/Sade, as well as being the assistant director. He also directed "We Fresh Are The New," the MPC experimental production that introduced to the Peninsula a whole new realm of theatre. He is also a student teacher of improvisational theatre technique at MPC.

Another well known attraction is Michael Neiland who directed many off-broadway plays for the American Repretoire Theatre in Beirut, Lebanon, and the Georgetown University theatre in Washington, D.C. He is also familiear to local audiences through „Midsummer Night,s Dream:, "Tartuffe," "Marat/Sade" and many others.

Other familiar faces will be Rick Manheim of the Circle Theatre and the American Academy in New York, Don Porter of Hidden Valley and Circle Theatre fame, Mike Smith who will provide both acting and music, Velma Westbrook and Rita Abair from MPC, Barbara Brussell, a well-known creative dancer from the area, David Drakos, seen at the First Theatre, Circle, Studio and MPC. These are just a few of the many talented people who represent The Circle Players.

Of course, The Circle Players will not limit their scope to theatrical events. The group will also sponsor acoustical concerts, improvisational dance shows, poetry readings, and many other cultural events.

The venefit performances of ADAPTATION/NEXT, with dance and improvisations, will be presented on July 22 and 29, 8:30 p.m. at the Circle Theatre.

For information concerning memberships, contact Tim Thompson at P.O. Box 4529 Carmel. Tel. 624-2271.

Boxing Matches Announced

The main event for the first professional Boxing card in Watsonville in 12 years has been set by Garden City Boxing Club Promoter Joe Gagliardi.

Gagliardi made the announcement from his San Jose office that Roger "Boy" Pedrano from Salinas would trade punches with San Jose's Ray Echavarria on July 29 at 8 p.m. at the Harvest Festival Building on the Santa Cruz County Fairgrounds. The bout is scheduled for 10 rounds.

Echavarria, ninth ranked lightweight in the world according to WBC, has 48 fights to his credit with four losses and 20 KO's. Echavarria has fought the best in the world including a disputed decision loss to current WBC lightweight champion Mando Ramos. Ray broke several of Ramos ribs, while Ramos injured his hand and still lost.

Echavarria wants to win this fight to get a return shot at Ramos.

Pedrano has had 39 fights lost four and also has 20 KO's. Roger is considered an action fighter with a good left hook and strong uppercut.

Matchmaker Joe Cruz is currently seeking opponents for Watsonville heavyweight Gil Haney and Santa Cruz heavy Rocky Stagnaro to round out the card. Two amateur bouts will also be added to the card.

Tickets are priced at $5 for ringside and $3 for bleacher seats.

Watch Out For Gyp Car Repair Garages

When you,re travelling far from home on a vacation trip, you are especially vulnerable to gyp auto repair shops and service stations who can cheat customers by making phony or unnecessary repairs, says the California State Automobile Association.

Although the operators of such unscrupulous establishments are few, they are a lers who are in unfamiliar territory with little time to spare.

The dishonest operator of ten uses the scare tactic. He tells you your car,s water pump or generator is going out and you,d better have it fixed or replaced before it quits completely. Some auto servicemen have been known to squirt oil around a seal, then tell the owner it is leaking. Others have deliberately damaged hoses, fan belts and tires to make a sale.

What can you do to protect yourself against dishonest repairmen. The California State Automobile Association offers these suggestions:

First, establish in your own community a garage or service outlet you can trust and then stay with that garage---don,t keep hopping around from one place to another. If you have trouble finding such a place, check with the AAA or other reliable source for recommended establishments.

When you are going to take a trip, have your car checked thoroughly before leaving at your own garage or service station.

When you pull into a service station away from ho ne, one member of the family should stay with your car while it is being checked and serviced. It often helps if that person is out of the car and watching when the hood is opened.

SOME PEOPLE WILL DO ANYTHING FOR MONEY..

LISTEN TO MIGHTY 63 RADIO KIDD

For What The Big Boys Do For Big Money!!

The road race that separates the men from the supermen.

Make believe someone threw a road race and everybody came. Well, just about everybody. The truth is, July 21 through 23 some of the best riders in the world will be coming to Laguna Seca in Monterey for the Kawasaki Superbike International. And let's fact it, a lot has to do with the total prize fund. A bulging $50,000!

Who's going to be there? An all-star cast! America's number one contender Dick "Buggs" Mann looks at it this way: "It is going to be a 125 mile mad dash with about ten guys equally capable of winning. Scary!"

According to England's Peter Williams who will be on a new "low-boy" chassis Norton, "I have flown over 5,000 miles for this one and intend to make it pay!"

And what does the winner of the world's richest bike race at Imola, Italy, Englishman Paul Smart, think about all this? "The Americans aren't bad, but give me half a chance and I'll cop the whole fifty grand!" You won't have trouble recognizing Paul Smart, either. Big number eight will be using his distinctive "hang-out" riding style on a factory Kawasaki.

The Europeans are tough, but don't count out the Americans that quickly, Paul. Especially an American star like Cal Rayborn who will be saddling a new alloy Harley Davidson and currently holds the two-wheeled land speed record at 265 mph. Cal paid his first visit to Europe at Easter and shattered the fans over thre by winning three races and cracking two five year old track records, beating the cream of European road racers. As world champ Phil Read puts it, "That bloke is unreal. I have never seen anyone as forceful as Cal."

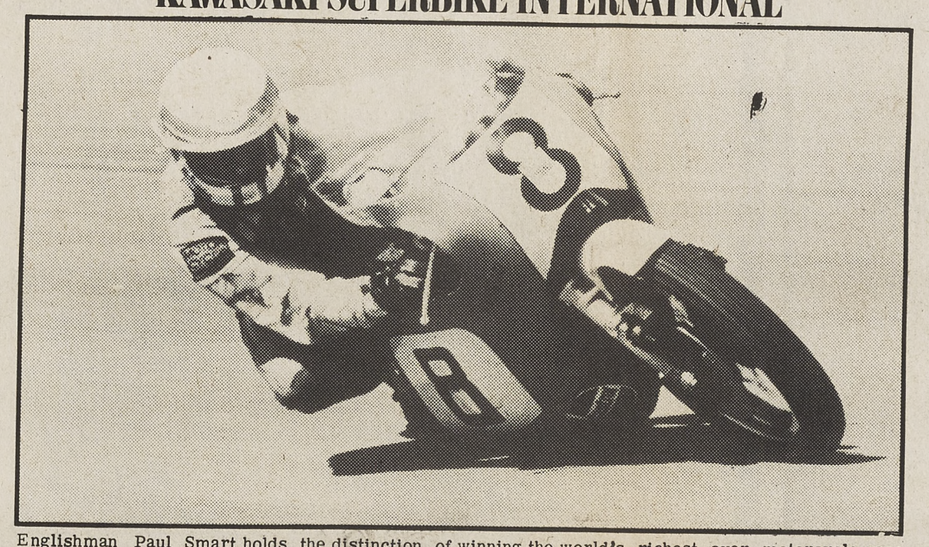
Monterey is going to be packed with stars. Like two-time world champion Kel Carruthers of Australia. He has raced all over the world and will be on a Yamaha factory machine as he takes off at Laguna.

And right beside him rubbing elbows for position will also be French-Canadian Yvon DuHamel. Yvon stands a little over five feet and weighs about 100 pounds, yet he'll be wrestling his three-cylinder 750 cc Kawasaki around 125 mile of torturous Laguna Seca track. A wild combination of skill and guts.

These boys are brave. They have to be! The two-day event will start with practice on Friday. Then a lightweight race as a warm-up on Saturday. Plus a "stars of tomorrow" race. On Sunday there will be a Junior race and two short but spectacular heat races qualifying the International stars for grid positions in the afternoon 125 miler. So you'll be able to see these exciting road racers roar off the line on three separate occassions, not to mention an exciting sidehack race.

All this, and beautiful Monterey countryside, too. A great weekend for the entire family. And as one fanatic fan says, "I believe just being there I'll be a part of motorcycle history. The track is incredible! The surroundings are breathtaking! And the racers are the heaviest! Whoever misses it is going to hate themselves for months!"

KAWASAKI SUPERBIKE INTERNATIONAL



Englishman Paul Smart holds the distinction of winning the world's richest ever motorcycle race held at Imola, Italy in May. He won part of $70,000 purse and will be one of the favorites at Laguna Seca on his Team Hansen Kawasaki which is capable of speeds up to 175 mph.

The Church relied on fear of Hell to keep people in the straight and narrow. Teachers relied on fear of the rod to keep children's eyes on their books. Parents and politicians relied on fear to prevent the breaking of laws. Under the circumstances, it would have been a miracle for the new economy to accept fear as anything but a stimulus. Even now, in this day and age, people responsible for the welfare of this country regard fear, at best, as residual. This proves that some things hang on even after similar beliefs in other departments of our life have been progressively discarded under the influence of modern researches into our human nature.

Whatever the historic justification may be, the fact remains that the use to which fear is put down on people by others with the power, goes counter clock-wise to much that we now know about ourselves. We now know that the children do not learn best when they are frightened. That is because the same bodily process that releases energy for the meeting of danger, inhibits the higher processes of the mind. For nature, this is a nice balance, but it discourages the use of fear as a stimulus to learning or to any other activity that involves the mind.

We now know that long-sustained fear produces apathy - rather than energy. That proves that the constantly anxious person is an ill person, not one full of zest and push. We now know that fear and hostility are good buddy-buddies in evil. Therefore, where there is habitual fear, there is an impulse to strike out at someone cast in the role of enemy. This someone may not even be the person responsible for the fear, he is just available. He could be a child in the home, a wife, a husband, a fellow worker, a peace officer, a minority group, in fact, he may be everyone with whom the frightened person comes in contact.

Fear makes for concentration on the SELF - not on the objective work that one is doing - and that it acts to prevent emotional maturing. It is true and few will argue that our economic system today gives most people a fine sense of confidence - in themselves and in the dependability of the culture. Unfortunately there still remain a very few who are still living in our early economic years. Several reasons they never advance (psychologically) when the rest of the world advanced. The cord of yesterday was never severed, so the connection is there today. Do not blame them harshly, just remember the Book: "They know not what they do."

I was out looking for my boss, Andy Barragan, to see if he had anything to add or subtract. No success. He's probably out there again watching the beach scenery. I don't blame him at all, the weather has been breaking one record after the other. This Monterey Peninsular just has to be the most wonderful place to live in the world.

I escorted this beautiful opera and concert singer from Berlin on an invitation to dinner the other evening. This was in Carmel-By-The-Sea. I can still hear the waves rush to the shore each time the ocrean takes a breath. On an average each ninth breath produces a gigantic wave whereas every drop is in competition to rise the highest as it reaches the shore first.

Ten Recieve MPC Grants

Ten Monterey Peninsula College students have been granted $50 book awards by members of the college's Humanities Division according to Rod Holmgren, division chairman.

The students recognized by teachers in the Humanities Division are: Constance Andrews of Monterey, James Brock of Seaside, David Getchell of Salinas, Betty Hansen of Carmel Valley, Erwin Lui of Pacific Grove, Phyllis O'Gara of Willows, Karen Salinger of Pacific Grove, Ada "Teddie" Smith of Carmel, Anthony Tolang of Pacific Grove and Dorothy Vaughn of Seaside.

Final selections were made by a committee of English instructors. The awards were made possible through voluntary contributions from members of the Humanities Division to express their interest in students taking classes in the division.

Supervisor Reports

Loren Smith

LOOKING FOR ANSWERS TO THE PROBLEMS. The recent report by the University of California Cooperative Extension on California's Environment contained a short article which I would like to quote in full as follows:

"In 1970, the State Legislature put up $9.25 million for a three-year effort to find scientific answers to California's Air Pollution problems. To date, according to the Air Resources Board which is awarding the research contracts, more than half of the money has been committed.

"The largest grant went to North American Rockwell Corporation for a study of aerosols in smog, an immensely complex subject. Another $1,390,756 went to the University of California for research projects on various campuses.

"To give an idea of how diverse the questions about Air Pollution are, here's a brief review of the ARB-finances smog research within the University:

"ON HEALTH PROBLEMS: Studies of effects of various air pollutants (carbon monoxide, PAN, lead) on people and test animals; studies of oxidizing pollutants such as ozone and nitrogen dioxide, and the role of biological antioxidants such as Vitamin E. Campuses involved ; Santa Barbara, Berkeley and Davis.

"ON MOTOR VEHICLES: Applied research on a better emmission-control device. Campus: UCLA.

"ON METEOROLOGY: Studies of wind patterns in the Central Valley, and rice-straw burning practices under different conditions. Campus: Davis.

"ON MONITORING AND INSTRUMENTATION: Studies of techniques to measure particulates from freeway traffic and other motor vehicles; other improved methods of measuring air pollutants. Campuses: Davis, Riverside, Berkeley, Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

"ON CHEMISTRY: Studies of simulated atmospheres, and chemical reactions in engines. Campuses: Davis, Berkeley, and Riverside.

"ON AGRICULTURAL BURNING: Better methods of controlled burning; alternatives to agricultural burning such as soil incorporation and weed control; efficiency of burning and incineration. Campus: Davis."

The MONTEREY/SANTA CRUZ AIR POLLUTION CONTROL DISTRICT is currently concerned with problems related to the Kaiser Refractories at Moss Landing.

The very fine dust which is created stays in the atmosphere like smoke and causes a hazy appearance. Our Air Pollution Control District has required Kaiser to install special 'Scrubbers' in their vent stacks to trap this dust. One of these scrubbers has already been installed and two more will be in operation by the end of the year. The total cost of these improvements xeing made by Kaiser Refactories is in an excess of $.2 million. Spreckels Sugar Company is also installing a scrubber in their vent stack at a cost of $300,000. These costly changes should result in gradual improvement of the visual pollution problems in our area and the Salinas Valley.

As Chairman of the joint Air Pollution Control District my efforts will continue aggressively to attain the full cooperation of othe Directors and industry in the best interest of all concerned citizens.

Mayor Dolan Reports

Joe Dolan
Home Rule!

This report is being written as a response to the attacks made against the Seaside City Council by State Senator Grunsky and the Monterey Peninsula Herald. Specifically the City Council has been accused of "irresponsible acquiescence" to beach front land developers to assure maximum profits for promoters; further, the Council is accused of ignoring the welfare of its consitiuents by permitting the construction of an 8-story Hilton Hotel on our 600 feet of beach frontage. You will note that these attacks are by non-Seaside constituents.

Why hasn't Senator Grunsky voiced a single audible objection to Monterey Holiday Inn, The Del Monte Beach Apartment Complex, the proposed 300 room Sheraton Hotel and Convention Center. If his proposed Coastline Bill had been considered and approved during the previous three years, none of these edifices could have been approved in Monterey! Seaside's Hilton Hotel planning and projected location have been public knowledge for 3 years! Our beach frontage has been zoned on the Area Master Plan as Commercial for over five years and the Land Acquisition Agreement was signed with the Hilton Hotel Developer more than two years ago!

A curious paradox exists regarding the Herald's attack on our Council. We have been accused of making a rapacious assault on the Monterey Bay Beach! Yet, the Herald endorses Monterey's proposed Convention Center and 300-room Sheraton Hotel.

But Senator Grunsky's rejected coastline bill would also have prevented the proposed Sheraton Hotel because of its proximity to the coastline! In other wrods Monterey's beachfront projects are all A-OK by the Monterey Herald and Seaside's sole beach front hotel is sinful! The logic of this ordorous public outcry against the Seaside Council is self-evident. The Herald is desirous of stopping Seaside's progress or you can attach any other motive you desire.

For the record. Seaside's Council, as duly elected officials, has an enlightened concern for our environment, a keen awareness of aesthetic and social values, and a dedication of service for the upgrading of our community. The Council has guaranteed public access to our 600 feet of beach frontage and this was written into the Hilton Hotel Land Acquisition Agreement two years ago!

Senator Grunsky and the Monterey Peninsula Herald are correct in one instance. We Seasiders will continue to exercise "Home Rule" with or without their approbation. This report has been concurred with unanimously by each member of the Seaside City Council.

If Senator Grunsky or the Monterey Peninsula Herald We Seasiders will continue were genuinely concerned about Seaside's progress, they could better vocalize by supporting our urgently needed new Post Office Building!

As I See It

BY MEL VERCOE

So now we knew. We won't have Hubert or Edmund or Shirley to kick around until 1976 and maybe George Wallace will decide to frop third party plans. And we can't just sit back and say it won't matter a great deal one way or the other, because in happens that the Presidency carries a lot of weight. It was not originally intended that way, but we do have a virtual dictatorship when both Congress and the Supreme Court fail to operate responsibly, so it does indeed matter whether we have Richard Nixon or George Wallace or George McGovern in the White House.

It is unfortunate that the whole mess has to be so com-of the issues compared with those facing our leadership in the year 1820, for example, are just fantastic, and there are times when it seems practicable to take some of the load and spread it around a bit. Instead of one President have four or five ot them, a rich one, a poor one, a minority race member, a young one, an old one, etcetera. Almost all of us, then, could relate to at least one of the Presidents. And hoepfully at least one of them could be selected for such qualities as honesty and intelligence, for those of us who would like to see such a person in such a high place.

It might even be worth considering having one of them care more about people than about money or political power, just for a novelty. But the basic flaw to such a plan, I suppose, would be how to agree on important decisions. Tossing a coin probably would violate some federal anti-gambling statute, and it might look silly to future historians to have to write books about how six or eight Presidents sat around a table and drew for high car out of a rummy deck to decide whether or not to make a pre-emptive nuclear strike.

But back on the farm, meanwhile, we almost have to feel sorry for Presidential candidates who have to come qp with a platform of promises that will please everybody, knowing that such a thing would be utterly impossible, and then having to try to balance the whole act on a high tightrope so that slightly more than fifty percent of each segment will be slightly more than half satisfied with each promise.

And we have to wonder how it will all end. Can we get the system to work, when the whole mess has become so commercialized that it is ridiculous, and when most of our population is not concerned enough about the total end result to really study the issues beyond the immediate impact such issues might have on their wallets? Maybe we had all better start going to church more often, and instead of using the opportunity to worry one hundred percent about our personal salvation, maybe one or more of us can get thru with a message that we need a little more common sense judgment and a little less greed in the human formula. Assuming that there is a God who had a hand in our origin, I just can't believe that he intended things to work out the way they are working out.

Letter to the Editor

Editor: The combination of private property rights and socalled home rule is certainly one of the most effective means to exploit the people and their natural resources in the interest of a few. It boggles the mind when one observes how the small bench area of Seaside is about to be destroyed for the benefit of corporate interests with the willing cooperation of local officials who possess neither the intellegence nor the perception to understand the damage they inflict on this area. It is nauseating to hear these individuals defend their myopic behavior with therms like home rule, local economy, property rights, tax base, while trading away the interests of the communities they pretend to represent.

It is not feasible to prevent the Babbitts who want to make the Peninsula into another Los Angeles from taking up residence here, but it should be possible to educate the citizens to keep them out of the public offices, for which they are so markedly unfit.

It is true that the Hilton Tower will be only another shackle in the chain of beach destruction that includes such constructions as the Townhouse and other apartment complexes, two sewage disposal plants, the Holiday Inn, the NPGS and Fort Ord blights, industrial plants and the Calabrese dump. The damage has been done. In a mere ten years the unique bayshore of Monterey, Seaside and San City has been raped by the money-hungry and the moronic. Soon these elements will climax their anti-social works with the complete destruction of Laguna Grande and Roberts Lake.

Next time you vote for mayors, councilmen or supervisors on the Peninsula, remember how you were sold down the drain for private interests and yesteryear's ideology.

Sincerely,
L.M.P.T. Wijsen

Work, follow, lead. That's the training prgram in which Cadet Felix T. Rosario Jr. of Seaside will be learning leadership and sound training management skills at the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps advanced camp in Fort Lewis this summer.

The theme of the training is preparation for leadership, supplementing and reinforcing on-campus instruction. The six-week course at Ft. Lewis will prepare college students from 12 western states, Alaska and Hawaii for commissioning as Army Second Lieutenants.

Brigadier General William L. Webb Jr., camp commander, said the training will maximize the hand-one-equipment type of training and minimize dull, old-fashioned lectures.

Working to achieve the basic weapons skills required of every soldier, cadets will qualify with the M-16 rifle and train with other weapons. Additional military skills to be taught include map reading and orienterring land navigation using only a map and compass.

A comprehensive physical training program will be augmented by the introduction of team handball and training in recondo - a program that includes mountain climbing, water obstacles and survival training.

The camp emphasis, however, will be on the development of leadership potential. A leadership structure that rotates daily will enable each cadet to perform in both command and subordiate positions. One day, the cadet may be a rifleman; the next day, he will have the responsibilities of a company commander.

Cadet Corpuz is scheduled to complete the training in late July.

The 21-year-old cadet is a 1969 graduate of Seaside High School.

Navy Ensign David S. Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wolf of Marina, completed the Basic Supply Corps School at Athens, Georgia.

She received instruction in Army history and traditions, administrative procedures, military justice, first aid and field training.

Pvt. Caver received her training with Company A of the WAC Training Battalion.

The private is a 1970 graduate of Cedartown High School, Cedartown, Georgia and attended Monterey Peninsula College.

Jimmie M. Locke, 24, son of Jimmie M. Locke of Seaside, recently was promoted to Army Specialist Four while serving with the 154th Aviation Company at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

An assistant maintenance clerk in the company, he entered the Army in January 1969, completed basic training at Ft. Riley, Kansas and was last stationed at Ft. Ord.

He is a 1967 graduate of South High School. His wife, Ruby, is with him in Oklahoma.

Alfonso C. Mitchell of Seaside recently enlisted in the United States Army. Alfonso is a graduate of Seaside High School and after basic training at Fort Ord he will be assigned to Fort Carson, Colorado and will be trained as a Data Systems Operator with the Fourth Division.

Cadet Michael D. Dill, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon D. Dill Jr. Marina, is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps Advanced Summer Camp at Ft. Riley, Kansas from June 10-July 21.

Cadet Dill, who is scheduled to receive a B.S. Degree in 1973 from Oklahoma State University. Dill, is one of more than 10,000 students attending Army ROTC training at six installations in the U.S.

The six-week ROTC Advanced Camp provides an opportunity for cadets to develop and demonstrate leadership capabilities in a field training environment. The instruction supplements theories and concepts which cadets learned in the classroom on campus.

Cadets normally attend the training between their junior and senior years. This enables them to better comprehend their final year of classroom work and to function as cadet leaders on campus.

He is a 1969 graduate of Killeen High School, Killeen, Texas.

Questions and Answers About Sickle Cell Anemia

Q. What is Sickle Cell Anemia?

A. It's an inherited abnormal blood condition that occurs when Sickle Cell "S" hemoglobin is present in the red blood cells.

Q. What is hemoglobin?

A. It's a protein combined with iron and coloring material contained in red blood cells. Hemoglobin gives these cells their red color.

Q. What is Sickle Cell hemoglobin?

A. Sickle Cell "S" hemoglobin--is an inherited abnormal type of hemoglobin. When it is present in the read blood cells it distorts the shape of these cells making them look like the "skckle" which is sometimes used for cutting high grass.

Q. Do many people have Sickle Cell Anemia?

A. It is estimated that there are approximately 60,000 cases of Sickle Cell Anemia in the U.S. at any one time.

Q. Does everyone with "S" hemoglobin have the active Sickle Cell disease?

A. No. Even thought 10% of the American Black population are carriers of the "A" hemoglobin (Sickling Trait) only 1 in 400 suffers from the active disease.

Q. Is Sickle Cell Anemia infectious or contagious?

A. No. Sickle Cell Anemia is inherited from parents who are either carriers (have the Sickle Cell Trait) or who have the active disease.

Q. Can Sickle Cell Anemia be mistaken for other disease?

A. Yes. The symptoms of Sickle Cell Anemia may suggest abdominal disease rheumatic fever, arthritis, pneumonia, viral hepatitis, and many other conditions.

Q. What are some of the symptoms of Sickle Cell Anemia?

A. Tiredness and loss of interest. Poor appetite. Frequent pains in the amrs, legs and abdomen. Frequent nose bleeds. Yellow color of the whites of the eyes.

Q. How do the Sickled blood cells cause trouble?

A. Because the Sickled cells are distored into various Sickle-type shapes they do not always pass easily through the blood vessels. Sometimes they create jams - like "log jams" - which obstruct the small blood vessels. When this happens, the blood supply to body tissue is shut off causing severe pain.

Q. What are "Crises"?

A. Patients who have the active Sickle Cell disease experience attacks of severe pain and when this occurs it is called a "Crisis". Crises may occur at any time and the paid is often in the back, bones and joints. A high fever usually accompanies the pain, which may last from several hours to several days. The attacks may occur days, weeks, or months apart.

Q. What causes a Crisis?

A. Some of the things that seem to "trigger" a crisis are: chilling, strenuous exercise, emotional stress, dehydration, underwater swimming, hard work at high altitudes, and head or chest colds. Some patients, however, have "crises" without any apparent cause.

Q. Is there a cure for Sickle Cell Anemia?

A. No, not yet. But, the disease can be prevented.

Q. How can I help prevent Sickle Cell Anemia?

A. 1st - Know your hemoglobin type. Your doctor can tell you this by performing a simple blood test. 2nd - Before pregnancy consult with your doctor if you or your spouse have the active disease or the trait. 3rd - Have your children's hemoglobin typed at an early age so that this information can be a confidential part of their medical histories.

Get Sickle Cell Test Saturday

Sickle Cell Anemia is a serious and often beadly inherited blood disease that is commonly found in young Black people---1 out of 10 Blacks carry the trait for sickle cell and 1 out of 400 are likely to have sickle cell anemia.

Some caucasians, particularly those whose ancestors come from the Mediterranean area, the Middle East and parts of India, may also have either form of the disease.

The disease is called sickle cell because of the sickle shape the red blood cells assume---creating blood clots which cause difficulty for oxygen (which is carried by red blood cells) to reach various organs of the body. When a sickle cell crisis (clotting) occurs, severe pain is experienced throughout the body.

Little has been done to combat the inherited disorder through detection, education, treatment and research, although the cause has been known for over 20 years. It is clearly one of America,s most neglected health problems.

The Harambe Medical Clinic, in conjunction with the Community Hospital, Bio-Metrics Lab, and various Black community organizations will be providing sickle cell trait testing and counseling on Saturday, July 22 from 9-6 p.m., at the Harambe Medical Clinic 1186 Broadway, Seaside. For more information on the testing call: 394-7721.

VW Campmobile Is Key To Pleasure

Volkswagen's Campmobile goes the vacation hideway "three better." It not only provides living and sleeping space for a family of our or five, but does it wherever and whenever the owner wants and then promptly switches back to work-a-day use with the turn of its key.

One of the most versatile vehicles on the road, the VW Campmobile's 7.3-inch road clearance and rear-wheel traction enable it to reach spots far off the beaten track --and delivery a sedan like ride in the bargain with its dependent torsion bar suspension. That means that it can turn almost any spot into a secluded hideway. About all it takes to work its magic is a map leading to the coast, mountains, woods or whatever --and the time to drive there.

Heart of the Campmobile is VW's new 1700-cc twin-carburetor rear engine which delivers nearly 25 percent more power than last year's model. That means faster get-up-and-go under all driving conditions, including improved hill-climbing performance.

Only about 15 inches longer than the familiar VW Beetle, the 1972 Campmobile--built on the same chassis as VW's bus like Station Wagon--serves variously as living room, dinnette, kitchen and bedroom while on vacation and during week-end get-aways. The rest of the time it serves as a family auto--for shopqing, driving to the commuter train station and other routine duties.

Convenience - designed "built-ins" include a clothes closet with inside-the-door mirror, a linen closet, two-shelf food locker, three additional storage cabinets and a hinge-mounted dinette table which swings up from the left side of the center "cabin" to seat four people.

The vehicle's compact "kitchen" area is equipped with 1/6-cubic-foot insulated icebos, 7-1/2 gallon water tank, pump-equipped stainless steel sink which is recessed into the top of the ice-box cabinet and a collapsible utility table. Hingemounted to the wall of the ice-box cabinet, the table covers a two-shelf "pantry," swinging up into position to hold a camp stove.

Power for interior lights is drawn from the vehicle's 12 volt battery while power for 110-volt electrical appliances is supplied from the outside through a socket installed in the oute wall of the vehicle itself.

At night the vehicle turns into sleeping quarters for four with a full-width 76-inch long double bed for two adults and smaller berths for two children. An optional "pop-top" which literally raises the Campmobile's roof provides a five-foot-long "upper" for a third child.

The "pop-top" itself is equipped with screening material to schut out insets while a snap-on collapsible screen also is provided for the vehicle's four-foot-wide door. All windows are curtain-equipped for inside privacy, the louver-type center whindows on each side also equipped with screens.

Optional in addition to the "pop-top" roof is a free-standing tent which can be left behind at a camping site whenever the vehicle is driven off on a short trip. In use, the tent provides a screened-in "living room" or extra bedroom measuring 9' 8" by 6'6".

Easy-to-clean polyvinyl flooring is used wall-to-wall inside the Campmobile while both interior wall and ceiling paneling is backed by fiberglass insulating material.

Braking power was increased for 1972 through the addition of larger rear-wheel brake cylinders. Already equipped with a power-assisted braking system for quick, easy stops, the 1972 Campmobile features radial ply tires as standard equipment.

As with all new Volkswagens, the Campmobile is backed by a 24-month or 24,000 mile--whichever comes firs--warranty and is delivered with coupons good for free VW diagnosis at 6,000-mile intervals during their first 24,000 miles of operation.

GE Pays For Summer Program

A graduate-level computer mathematics program for a racially mixed group of approximately 40 high school mathematics teachers from predominately Black high schools in ten southeastern states is taking place this summer at Florida A & M University in Tallahassee, all expenses paid by a $44,000 General Electric Foundation grant.

In announcing the grant, Dr. Donald J. Watson, secretary of the foundation, said that this program, conducted as a pilot project in 1970 and 1971, has as its aim "the updating of teachers and administrators in new mathematical concepts and curriculum development techniques in order to improve mathematics instruction for minority students in the South."

Computer mathematics is emphasized, Dr. Watson said, because of the increasing need for such knowledge by young people entering the puter theory, Basic and Fortran languages and programming through remote terminals tied into a time-sharing network, plus batch processing using an on-campus computer. Advanced mathematics concepts, such as linear algebra, are studied, as well as curriculum development Techniques for the use of course materials.

Record Promotion Is 'Too Hot To Handle

Over one half million disposable women's panties, destined to be packaged with a new album by theatrical rock star Alice Cooper, have been seized by U.S. customs agents in Philadelphia on the grounds that they're more than hot stuff.

The undies have been tested by officials of the Federal Trade Commission against standards established by the Flammable Fabric Act (Public Law 88) and the panties, made of "non-woven fabric," flunked the FTC's tests.

The panties were manufactured in Great Britain. At this time, there is said to be no such product domestically manufactured.

The Alice Cooper record album package for which the scanty drawers are intended is "School's Out," designed by Craig Braun --the man who designed the Rolling Stones zipper album--for Wilkes & Braun Inc.

The album features, aside from the record itself a simulated school desk, complete with simulated chewing gum on the bottom and comic book and marbles inside.

The panties were meant to be used as auto antenna pennants, to be flown in the time-honored school-boy tradition.

A Niagara Falls New York-based consultant, recommended by the FTC, is now working on a solution which would render the half-million panties safe enough to unleash on a public a[illegible] the "School's Out"

Wilkes & Braun, the pantie importer, and Warner Bros. Records (All label) and [illegible] (or her) self are all confident that the pantie problem [illegible] resolved order.

A representative of the pantie importe pointed out that federal statutes concerning flammability are not entirely clear. According to a spokesman for the importer, disposable surgical apparel made of the same material as the panties is not subject to the FTC flammability codes.

Sets 14 NBA Records

Wilt Chamberlain, who led Los Angeles to its first National Basketball Association championship in 1971-72, established 14 NBA records in the Lakers' banner season.

One record was for most points during his career--30,335. Another was for highest scoring average during career, with a 400-game minimum.
